

Grandma's Christmas Dinner

(Come for Grandma's Christmas vittles.
Loosen up your belts a little.)
Yes! I'll have both dark and light meat.
Yes! those home made rolls are a treat.
Yes! I'll take some spuds and gravy, too.
Yes! I'll have a slice of pot roast.
Yes! our Grandma is the best host.
Yes! there's sour cream and butter, too.

Why is Grandpa looking pallid?
(Grandma's making him eat salad.)
Grandma Mary's dressing is divine.
(I'll have another helping.)

Yes! there's beans and bacon stewing.
Yes! there's punch and cocoa brewing.
Yes! there's pumpkin pie and apple, too.
Come to Grandma's Christmas dinner.
Every dish a ribbon winner.

[Reverently:]
Grandma's carrot pudding has a history.
Grandma puts some brandy in.
(Grandpa adds a little extra.)
Lemon sauce is laid on top!

Grandkids show their olive fingers.
Grown-ups gab and laugh and linger.
Babies peer through jello, red and green.
Grandpa tells a joke or two,
While Grandma gently disapproves,
So have your fill of all that's offered you.
Fill your hearts, too.

Lots of love at Grandma's table.
Fill your souls with all you're able.
Come to Grandma's Christmas dinner.
Come to Grandma's Christmas dinner.
Thanks to God this blessed Christmas Eve.
